Troy Jorgensen

Senior Program Manager – Project ECHO

Troy Jorgensen is the Senior Program Manager with Project ECHO Nevada at the University of Nevada, Reno School of Medicine, Office of Statewide Initiatives. Project ECHO provides virtual case consultation and continuing education services to the state's rural and underserved providers. Troy has been with Project ECHO for over 10 years, starting as a Program Coordinator and now in his current role as Sr. Program Manager. As a native Nevadan, he believes strongly in the mission of ECHO to maximize scarce resources to improve health across the state. He earned his Master's in Healthcare Administration from UNLV in 2024 and continues to develop his expertise in healthcare in Nevada.
